

Michigan State University

Department of Philosophy

COLLOQUIA

1996-1997

- September 20, 1996 Fred Gifford, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Dennett on Gould and Lewontin on Spandrels and Adaptationism
- October 4, 1996 Charles McCracken, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Demons that Deceive, Gods that Perceive, and the Limits of Skepticism
- October 18, 1996 Stephen L. Esquith, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Emerson and Political Equality
- November 1, 1996 Craig N. Bach, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Philosophy & Mathematics: Zermelo's 1904 Well-ordering Proof
- November 15, 1996 Joseph Hanna, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Context-free Transformational Grammar: A Research Program
- November 22, 1996 Philip Cohen, Hillel Jewish Student Center
The Problem of the Creation of the World in Maimonides "Guide of the Perplexed"
- January 10, 1997 Gian Aldo Antonelli, Department of Philosophy, Stanford University
Conceptions and Paradoxes of Sets
- January 17, 1997 Ming Xu, Department of Philosophy, University of Pittsburgh

Seeing to it That: A Logic of Agency
- January 21, 1997 Steven Awodey, Ph.D. Candidate, The University of Chicago
Carnap and Categoricity: the "Gabelbarkeitssatz" of 1929
- February 3, 1997 Elizabeth Hackett, Women's Studies Program, The University of Michigan
"Totalizing" Theories of Gender: Catharine MacKinnon's (purported) Gender Essentialism
- February 7, 1997 Marianne Janack, Department of Philosophy and Religion, Colgate University
The Epistemic Significance of Conversion
- February 10, 1997 Cressida J. Heyes, Ph.D. Candidate, McGill University

Anti-Essentialism in Practice: Carol Gilligan and Feminist Philosophy

- February 14, 1997 Lisa Tessman, Department of Philosophy, Mt. Holyoke College
Liberatory Politics and Dangerous Loyalties
- March 14, 1997 J. David Velleman, Department of Philosophy, University of Michigan
Is There a Right to Die?
- March 21, 1997 Nicholas Dixon, Department of Philosophy, Alma College
The Adversary Method in Law and Philosophy
- April 4, 1997 Quentin Smith, Department of Philosophy, Western Michigan University
Time and What Exists