

Michigan State University

Department of Philosophy

COLLOQUIA

1998-1999

- September 18, 1998 Nicholas D. Smith, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Plato's Analogy of Soul and State
-
- September 25, 1998 Cressida J. Heyes, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
Identity, Power, and Feminist Theorizing
-
- October 9, 1998 Marilyn Frye, Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
What Categories are About
-
- October 30, 1998 Robert Stecker, Department of Philosophy, Central Michigan University
Christine Korsgaard's Sources of Normativity
-
- November 13, 1998 Judith Andre, Leonard Fleck, and Tom Tomlinson, Center for Ethics and Humanities in the Life Sciences and Department of Philosophy, Michigan State University
On Being Genetically Responsible
-
- January 8, 1999 Frederick Rauscher, Eastern Illinois University
Kant's Moral Anti-Realism
-
- January 29, 1999 Deborah A. Boyle, Ph.D. Candidate, University of Pittsburgh
Illuminating Thoughts: Descartes' Natural Light
-
- February 26, 1999 Debra Nails, Mary Washington College
The Social Embeddedness of Plato's Philosophy
-
- March 19, 1999 Mary Mahowald, University of Chicago
On Helping People to Die -- A Pragmatist Account
-
- March 26, 1999 Paul Rusnock, Michigan State University
Bolzano and the Austrian Tradition
-
- April 2, 1999 Frank M. Kirkland, Hunter College, CUNY Graduate Center

April 23, 1999

Larry Hickman, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale
Hardhats and Habermas: The Technophobic Residue in Communicative Action