Preamble

Michigan State University has a long and exemplary history in protecting student rights and promoting student responsibilities. Established in 1967, the MSU Office of the University Ombudsperson is the longest continuously operational Ombuds office at any university in the nation. The office is mandated by Article 10 of the Michigan State University Student Rights and Responsibilities (SRR), first adopted by the Board of Trustees on March 16, 1967. The SRR asserts that the main function of the University Ombudsperson is to “assist students in accomplishing the expeditious settlement of their problems.” Four sections in Article 10 offer some minimal guidance in how this goal is to be accomplished.

This Charter incorporates and elaborates on Article 10 and provides necessary details on the purpose, nature, and function of the office. The aim is to clarify expectations the University community has about the Office of the University Ombudsperson; what it is and what it is not. A secondary purpose of this charter is to formally connect the practice of the University Ombudsperson to the Code of Ethics of the International Ombudsman Association (IOA), the field’s preeminent professional association. This Charter contains items taken from several sources: Article 10 of the SRR; the Standards for the Establishment and Operation of Ombuds Offices (ABA Standards), revised and published by the American Bar Association in 2004; the IOA Code of Ethics (COE); and the IOA Standards of Practice (SOP). The source of each item of this Charter is identified as appropriate.
